CONDITIONS OF SALE.

- I. The highest bidder to be the buyer ; and if any dispute arise between bidders, the lot so disputed shall be immediately put up again, provided the Auctioneer cannot decide the said dispute.
- II. No person to advance less than 1s. ; above five pounds, 2s. 6d. ; and so on in proportion.
- III. In the case of lots upon which there is a reserve, the Auctioneer shall have the right to bid on behalf of the seller.
- IV. The purchasers to give in their names and places of abode, and to pay down 10s. in the pound, if required, in part payment of the purchase-money ; in default of which the lot or lots purchased to be immediately put up again and re-sold.
- V. The lots to be taken away, at the buyer's expense, immediately after the conclusion of the sale ; in default of which Messrs. SOTHEY, WILKINSON & HODGE will not hold themselves responsible if lost, stolen, damaged, or otherwise destroyed, but they will be left at the sole risk of the purchaser. If, at the expiration of ONE WEEK after the conclusion of the sale, the books or other property are not cleared or paid for, they will then be catalogued for immediate sale, and the expense, the same as if re-sold, will be added to the amount at which the books were bought. Messrs. SOTHEY, WILKINSON & HODGE will have the option of reselling the lots uncleared either by public or private sale without any notice being given to the defaulter.
- VI. All the books are presumed to be perfect, unless otherwise expressed ; but if upon collating, any should prove defective, the purchaser will be at liberty to take or reject them, provided they are returned within ONE WEEK after the conclusion of the sale, when the purchase-money will be returned.
- VII. The sale of any book or books is not to be set aside on account of any worm-holes, stained or short leaves of text or plates, want of list of plates, or blank leaves, or on account of the publication of any subsequent volume, supplement, appendix, or plates. All the manuscripts, autographs, all magazines and reviews, all books in lots, and all tracts in lots or volumes, will be sold with all faults, imperfections and errors of description. The sale of any illustrated book, lot of prints or drawings is not to be set aside on account of any error in the enumeration of the numbers stated, or error of description.
- VIII. No IMPERFECT BOOK will be taken back, unless a note accompanies each book, stating its imperfections, with the number of lot and date of the sale at which the same was purchased.
- IX. To prevent inaccuracy in the delivery, and inconvenience in the settlement of the purchases, no lot can on any account be removed during the time of sale.
- X. Upon failure of complying with the above conditions, the money required and deposited in part of payment shall be forfeited ; and if any loss is sustained in the reselling of such lots as are not cleared or paid for all charges on such re-sale shall be made good by the defaulters at this sale.

Gentlemen who cannot attend the Sale may have their Commissions faithfully executed by their humble Servants,

PREFACE.

WITH the dispersal of the Library of the late John Taylor Brown, LL.D., F.S.A. (Scotland), there will pass under the hammer one of the last of the large private libraries for which Edinburgh was once so renowned.

Of the more famous of the well-known collections sold during the last thirty years or so, the libraries of the late David Laing, James Gibson Craig, James Maidment, J. Whitefoord Mackenzie, and that now about to be sold, were all rich in rare and interesting matter relating to Scotland. Dr. Taylor Brown lost no opportunity of adding to the interest of his collection by purchases of curious items relating to his native country, and each of the four sales above referred to was drawn upon to this end. As his colleagues on the Council of the Scottish Text Society, of which he had been Senior Vice-President, said of him, he "was perhaps the last of a class of scholars of the olden time, who have done much to promote the study of Scottish literature; and his great knowledge and judgment were much valued by the Council."

But in these days of specialism in book collecting, as in everything else, I have only to point to the number of first and early editions of Milton (many of these acquired from the Holt-White collection), Shelley, Keats, Byron, Browning, Burns, Hogg, Thackeray, Lamb, Scott, Thomas Campbell, Crabbe, Bewick, Defoe, James Thomson, Blair, Pollok ("Course of Time"), Savage Landor, Spenser, Allan Ramsay, Pascal, Gibbon, Hobbes, Drayton, David Hume, Fletcher, Goldsmith, Galt, Cowper, and many others, as well as to the array of the Classics, Bibles, Books on Art, Heraldry, Archæology, and in fact on almost every subject interesting to collectors and literary men—to evidence the culture and the catholicity of taste which distinguished Dr. Brown.

Many of the rarer items were obtained by him in days now long gone by, not so much on account of their money value, as for their own sake, because they interested him, for to him his books were his friends—not merely articles of Vertu.

Yet another feature of the Library is the collection of volumes, the interest and value of which lie in the MS. annotations and marginalia of such men as Coleridge, Horace Walpole, Wordsworth, etc. The notes on many of these volumes, particularly those by Coleridge and Walpole, are pungent in the extreme and of great interest. Most of them were referred to by Dr. Taylor Brown in that curiously fascinating brochure on "Bibliomania" which he published. There is, however, one volume of peculiar interest, annotated by Coleridge, which was acquired by Dr. Brown subsequent to the publication of his "Bibliomania." I refer to the copy of Lord Brooke's Workes, containing, among other interesting features, a MS. adaptation by Coleridge of one of Brooke's Poems which Coleridge subsequently published as his own. This curious volume Dr. Brown held he had established as having once belonged to Charles Lamb. For Dr. Brown's note on this volume, which he looked upon as one of his greatest treasures, I refer to the transcript in the catalogue. I may also mention the copy of Milton's Letters of State, containing the autograph of his nephew, Edward Philips.

In addition to the annotated volumes above referred to, many of the curious and rare books, and many even of those of only ordinary interest, bear pencil notes by Dr. Brown himself. These notes, though far too voluminous to print in a sale catalogue, are an additional testimony to his profound learning and his vast accumulation of old world lore and out of the way information, much of which I fear has died with him.

Dr. Taylor Brown died in 1901, in his 91st year. He used to tell how his first purchase was made, when he was under 10 years of age. He suddenly appeared to the astonishment of his father, struggling under the weight of, but bearing in triumph, an ancient tome, so huge that it almost overwhelmed the small collector. And henceforward, silently but continuously over a period of 80 years, the collection was added to and supplemented. I imagine many a bookseller throughout the Kingdom has missed the well-known handwriting with its order for Gibraltar House. After Dr. Brown's death there were found numbers of letters, not only from the literary men of the various generations through which he had lived, but also from many a well-known bookseller, asking his advice and further information regarding out of the way items which they had acquired: thus evincing trust and belief in the reliability of his inexhaustible store of curious information. These inquiries were always promptly and courteously answered, for nothing pleased him more than to find among the publishers and booksellers those who cared for books, for their own sake.

Up to the last they were welcomed, those mute friends he loved so well, and a haven of rest was found for them in one of those numberless bookcases which lined and counterlined almost every room, nook and corner in the erstwhile old country mansion where Dr. Brown resided for well nigh half-a-century. And the incident was not without a touch of pathos, that as he lay unconscious and oblivious, the result of an accident which carried him off after only a few days illness, the silent visitors continued to pour in. But their pages were never to be opened by him.

W. B. DUNLOP.

- * * * THE ANNOTATED COPY OF SAMUEL TAYLOR COLERIDGE, of which a full account is given in Dr. J. T. Brown's "Bibliomania" (q. v.). It is the identical copy mentioned in a note to the last edition of the Biographia Literaria, vol. II, p. 31.
 The Annotations in this volume have been written in red pencil, and some words are partly illegible from rubbing. The front fly-leaf is occupied by a note from Dante, in pen and ink, in Coleridge's hand. The Annotations in the text are noticeable for their outspokenness, the writer being specially hard on this early poem of Southey's, to which Coleridge himself contributed most of the second book, and some other passages. Inserted are some notes of the late Mr. Dykes Campbell on this annotated volume, comparing the notes with the MS. of the poem in the British Museum. AN EXCEEDINGLY INTERESTING AND IMPORTANT VOLUME.

1897. The first of these was the Journal of the American Medical Association, which was founded in 1897. It was the first of a series of journals that were founded in the United States during the late 19th and early 20th centuries. These journals were founded by a group of physicians who were dissatisfied with the existing medical journals in the United States. They wanted a journal that was more up-to-date and more focused on the latest developments in medicine. The Journal of the American Medical Association was the first of these journals.
